LIBERTY AND UNION, NOW AND FOREVER, ONE AND INSEPARABLE "-- WEBSTER.

BY CRANSTON & NORMAN

127 THAMES STREET. MONDAY MORNING, MAY 19, 1851.

The Providence Herald, of Saturday, makes a contemptible attack'up on Nuthan Bishop, Esq., for many years past Superintendent of the Public Schools of that city, and who has just been elected to the same office in Bos ton. Mr. Bishop is admirably qualified for the duties of his office, was formerly an instructor in Brown University, and is every way qualified for his new position, -end the people of Boston have done well in recuring his valuable services. The cause of the Herald's at tack on Mr. Bishop, as it avove, is that he was a law and order man, as was almost every decent man in the State, in 1842, and helped put down Dorr and his gang of traiting.

The steamship El Dorado arrived at New York Saturday morning, bringing one million in gold from California. There is nothing particularly interesting in the intelligence which she brings. Parties are preparing for the State elections. There are accounts of the usual number of murders, robberies. September 1

TThe U. S. Circuit Court is now in session in Boston. The following is an extract from the excellent charge of

Judge Woodbury to the Grand Jury :nin truth, gentlemen, we all must feel in our cool moments, without the sid of precedents or labored reasoning, that all Constitutional laws passed by the General Government must be enlorced or it ceases to govern—it is virtually overturned, and the union connected with it becomes in principle dissolved.— In such a case likewise, there is substi-tuted for the sanctity of law and order, when a mob triumphe and goes unpunished, the government of a mob. sward of justice is wrested from her grasp, and wielded by a mob-the spirit of misrule and rebellion is substituted.... the committuous violence and anarchy of human passions, free from legal restraint and stimulated by plunder or revenge, are substituted,—and though we may all deprecate the necessity of cul-ling in the military or army to protect the laws and vindicate their reign, yet they are far safer than an infuriated mob, and must be invoked to assist in executing the laws, if need, rather than let the sun of turbulence go down in the clouds and blood of rebel insulardination. In conclusion, Gentlemen, feelam aware you do, that this Government was made or adopted by Government was made or adopted by yourselves, and not forced on you by tyranny, it must be sustained by yourselves brough a faithful administration of the laws, till a majority choose to alter them; or else the bayonet will be the only resort against inevitable anar chy. I suprove this occasion to exhort you to continue firm and united, sustaining by peace and order the Constitution, the Laws and our holy Union.—And disagreeable as it may be to you or me, if any of our fellow citizens have under sudden and misguided passions, offended against the public safety of everything dear to us, by ruinous at-tempts. I might almost say treasonable attempts to overturn parts of the Constitution itself, as well as some of the aws, and violently obstructed their administration,—painful if one must visit on them exemplary punishment, yet it is a july view not only indispensable to sethe the sovereign reign of the laws, but to prevent all the beauties and glota of our incoved Union from being coattered in fragments over a rained ectainty by the particidal hands of some of its own children.

Edwards, Third Artillery, stationed ati Fort Moultrie, S. C. have had a hostile meeting at Sullivan's Island. After an exchange of shots, by which Edwards was slightly wounded in the back, the difficulty was reconciled. A lady, we belive, was at the bottom of the misurederstanding, as usual.

From the Commercial Advertiser. LORDON, May 2d.

The great ceremony of opening the Exhibition is passed. Prince Albert, who is the real head and front of the whole enterprise, determined that it should be grand,—if possible, the grandest thing of her Majesty's reign,--and he has not failed. Even the heavenr favored him, for this whole Spring has given us no such day of bright sunshine and balmy air as was voucheafed yesterday. Few who witnessed the viliale ceremony will fail to make some record of it somewhere, and I know of no place where I can better make my own than through your columns, to my old friends, your readers.

The day was a general jubilee. To any one who knows what a holiday is: of a pleasant morning, in London, when shops are shut, workmen freed from lubor, and citizens appear in their gayest dresses, I need not describe what London was yesterday. And yet London on an anniverency holiday and London on the day of opening the greatest Exhibition the world over saw, with the success of which, too, every loyal subject feels that the reputation of the crown is identified, are quite two different things. I suppose it is true, that during a time of peace, all of the United Kingdom, and all of Europe too for that matter, was never so intensely interested in the progress of any one thing as it has been in that of the Industrial Exhibition Formany days it has been next to impossible to force one's way after noon

through the crowd, which has besieged the gates of the Crystal Palace, but yesterday from early light until after dark, every avenue, street, passage lane and drive, within a mile of Hyde Park, was filled with a living but almost unmoving mass of people. Nothing but the most admirable arrangements among the police and special constabulary force could have effected what was effected, the sale and timely admission of 25,000 people within the building. At 71-2 o'clock the whole line of the drive from Buckingham Palace to the North door of the transcpt, along which the Royal procession was to move four hours after-a distance of at least one mile-was crowded on both sides with speciators not less than ten dcep, and oftentimes exceeding' that number when the position was good by at least ten fold. At 8 1-2 o'clock the line of carriages extended from Knightsbridge road, just opposite the South side of the transcot, to half way down the Strand, a distance but little short of three miles. Indeed, what with the closing of the great warehouses of the city and the shops of the thoroughfares, what with the 30,000 contributors from England alone and the 100,000 strangers from the continent, I very much doubt if London ever saw such a day or held such a crowd of people in its streets. Every available point or elevation commanding a favorable view of the Royal route, literally swarmed with human beings of every age, class and sex. The balconies, windows and roofs of the houses were put in requisition and tested to their ulmost capacities of accommodution, and the sloping ground near the Scrpentine bridge, the trees scattered along the route, the gates, lampposts, and the tops of fences, held such a numerous and apparently good natured assemblage, as defice all descrip-

Favored by a pass from the Lord Chamberlain, I obtained an easy entrance within the gates at about 9 o'clock, and a most excellent position for hearing and seeing all that occurred .--The whole of the immense building was at that hour filled with speciators, Along | pertion of the nave, during which she the siste, beneath the transcpt, through was constantly cheered, the Queen rethe nave, in the galleries, no where was there a

"letty, frieze, or coigne of vautage," that had not been occupied by people, and even lar up in the roof, where a beam, or girder, or rafter, showed a sccure place for observation, a favored few had found lodgement. Beneath the arch of the transept a large platform had been erected, and upon this the chair of state was placed. All along the avenucs were stationed the body guards of the Queen. Surrounding the platform were the Coldstream Guards in full uniform. Lining the entrance from the A Duet.-Lieut, Adams, and Lieut, north door stood in double rank the Tower Guards, attracting much attention by their antique armor and dress. On one side of the platform were ranged the Royal Commissioners in full dress ; on the other the Foreign Commissioners some forty in number, each distinguirhed by the dress or uniform of his country. It was about 101-2 o'clock that the appearance of notabilities in the crowd hegan to attract attention. The Duke of Wellington was as usual early in the field. His Grace appeared all at once, looking well, covered with the decorations that almost every country in Europe has showered upon him, and as he passed to he place was greeted by the shouts of the assemblage. As he

for eighty-two la and immediately another and a louder cheer rung up from the thronged mave, and was exughi and re-echoed down the long vistes of siele and gallery.

At this juncture the police and engineer corps were withdrawn, and in their place marched in the " gentlemen at arme," magnificently dreamed in scarlet uniform and brazen helmete, each carrying an antique parlizon, and giftering in gold and scarlet. Immediately upon this, the advent of the notables became rapid. Ministers, ambassadors. peers, commons, officers of the army and nuvy, judges, barristers, bishops, heralds and keepers of the crown, passed along, and the effect of the vast variety of uniforms, continually interesingling and interchanging their hues, and the quaint, untique and peculiar costumes, known to an American only through prints and paintings, was singular and almost bewildering. Then the officers of state in Cabinet uniform, the Earls in yeomanry dress, the Lord Chancellor in his suit of black velvet. the Russian Minister in green and silver, the Austrian in blue, the Prussian in allver and white, the fez cap and turban of the Mussulman, and the real Chinese in his blue and white sik half petticouts, all made up a wondrous and gorgeous scene half of folly and half of form.

The hour of 12 had been announced as the time for the entrance of the Queen, and, always punctual, as the clock began to strike, the Queen entered, leaning on the arm of Prince Albert, and holding the tartained little Prince of Wales by the hand. She was attized in pink and white, the bosom of her dress glistening with pearls and a diamond tiara sparkling in her hair. As she entered cheers greeted her from every portion of the building from which she could be seen, and as she slowly advanced, returning with quiet and smiling courtery the honors she received, uproarous greetings burst forth with more and more vehemence at every step she took.

Arrived at the platform, the Ministers and great officers of the household gathered around her, forming a group of splender indescribable. The Queen. standing erect with the Prince and her children on each side, looked for a moment with quiet womanly dignity over the assemblage, when there pealed forth a trumpet blast from the choir, and as the vast multitude, moved by a sudden impulse, again waved hats and kerchiefe, the sudden stir through all the aisles and galleries, the sudden flutter of drapery, and flash of light upon satin, silk and velvet, showed like a gleaming sunburst playing open the crowd. As she took her seat, Prince Albert left her side, and advancing at the head of the Royal Commissioners, read aloud the report, to which she returned gracious answers. The Archbishop of Canterbury then read a prayer, the organ with its accompaniment of more than three hundred instruments and eight hundred voices pealed out its Hallelujah, the crowd around the throne fe'l back, and the procession began again to form.

At this moment the Mandaria, impelled by some sudden impulse, dashed through the halberdiers, and nearly overturning Lord John Russell in his speed, prostrated himsell for a moment at the Queen's leet, touching his forehead upon the floor. Though this part of the ceremony was not in the programme and excited at first some little stir, her Majesty received the salana with gracious coolness, and the procession again started. After visiting every turned to the platform and through, the Lord Chamberlain announced the Ex hibition opened. Her departure like her entrance was the signal for loud cheering, from the crowds within and without the building. Thus was opened the World's Fair, and through yesterday and thus far to-day, teeming thousands of visitors are wandering through its galleries, and examining its wonders of art and manufactures from every portion of the blobe. THE ERIE RAIL ROAD.

The train reached Dunkirk at haffpast 4 o'clock, and was received with the shouts of the assembled thou sands, who had been crowding into the town by land and water during the day. It is supposed that from 8,000 to 10,000 persons were present. The bells of the village, and of the steamers, rung for fifteen minutes, and seventeen guns were fired on the Common for the President and Directors of the New York and Krie Railroad Company, and one gun for every county through which the read passes. Triumphal arches and banners were everywhere to be acen. Ten sleamers were in port all gaily decorated on the arrival of each one, three guns were fixed; for the Niagura ten guns; and when the U. S. tottered along, somebody cried out, steamer Michigan arrived one This is the Duke's birth-day! Hurtah guns were fired for the Union. steamer Michigan arrived one hundred

The President and Directors of the Railroad, and their guests, were received on the platform provided for that purpose, and the ceremony of the presentation of the bonner by the ladies of Dunkirk, to the President and Directors took place. After partaking of some refreshment, the company proceeded to the Loder House. Subsequently the ceremonies as marked on the programma were performed, and the company sat down to dinner. The tables were laid in the depot ; they were 300 feet long, and capable of accommodating 5000 persons. After several toasts had been prepared, President Fillmore rose and said that if the flattering reception extended, to him had been tendered to him personally, he would have been overwhelmed .-He knew it was not intended for him. but as a testimony of respect for the high office which he filled. He considered this as an evidence of devotion of the assemblage to the constitution and loyalty to the glorious union, by which it is maintained. We have assembled said he for the purpose of celebrating the completion of one of the greatest works of the age, a railroad, which in extent is greater, he believed, than any that ever had been constructed by any nation or any private company. The President and Directors of the New York and Eric Railroad have completed a road which in length exceeds one which the Emperor of all the Russias, and all the Russians, has been engaged in attempting to accomplish. My object is not to make a speech; I am too hoarse to do so; were it possible for me to speak, I could tell you what I saw in prospect on the railroad, conling through this beautiful valley; but it failed him unfortunately. A new set of men however are found who had not in their vocabulary the word fail. Gentlemen, there is but one link in the great chain connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific Ocean. It is, therefore due to those gentlemen who engaged in this work, and who have successfully triumphed over all obstacles, that I stated and testified my regard for the work in which they were engaged, as well as my approval of general improvements. (Great applause.) I give to you the following sentiment:

"The New York and Eric Railroad ...The great private enterprise of the age. All praise to those whose persevering industry has accomplished this noble work."

Mr. Loder responded, and gave a history of the rise and progress of the road. Mr. Crittenden followed is an eloquent speech, and in the meantime, Mesers. Websier and Seward were addressing the multitude outside the depot

There was a general illumination at night, and a more joyous and brilliant scene it is said, cannot well be conceived . .

TYPERIENCE In the Basis of all Rend Knowledge.—To BEE and to FEEL in to KNOW, and that which is need and known must not be contradicted. When Galileo announced the discovery of obwellows, the Aristotelisms said, "This is impossible," Galileo replied, "Look through my telescopie, and behold." The phillumphers rejoined, "We will not look let we should see them." There are a few people non-days as ally that they will not look at facts lest some projudice should be disturbed." These persons are, however, not numerous, and their stupidity injures rabody but themselves. The character of Dr. S. P. Townsond's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla reris upon undvertal experience alone. Without this solid foundation, it never could have attained the wide-spread popularity which it at present eajoys, its value and mediciant effectly being thus demonstrated by the experience of thousands, it is only necessary to say that science sanctions and verifica the vertice.

Dr. S. P. Tawasawa-Dear Ser I am most happy 17. S. f. Tawasama—Dear Str; I am most happy to acknowledge that, after suffering for nearly nine years with the Sait Thousam in a very aggravated form, and being abandoned as heurable by several of car first physicians, I was finally persuaded to try your hardaned herespecials. The effects were seen perceptible, and when I had used tan bottles, to my great surprise I fraud myself not only cared of that most disagrees we and irritating disease, but my gonoral health was so much improved that it my general resils was so much improved that it automished my family and fireheat. Since then I have advised others to make use of your Medicine, and have noticed its wonderful effects couring in numer-ers diseases, not allogather caused by a bad state of the blanch. of the blead

Dr. S. P. Townsand's Serseparilla contains just the qualities that are requisits in these cases. It acts as s mild alterative and espectorent, thus changing the action of the system, and enabling it to throw off the complaint. The number of ineleases in which Coughs and Colds here been cared by this prepapation is immense. Brostlyn, June 18, 1850.

From "The Weldon Herald," published at Weldon, N. C., January 25, 1850, which said—"Patent Medicines."

"It is very seldom that we make any allusion to Patent Medicines, either approving or other wise. Unfortunately for the country, and for honest and conscioutious inventors and renders of these medicines, the land is becoming flooded with quack perparations, that are made alone for profit, and are fit rot even for the dogs. In his state of things it is hard to tell which are, and which are not worth having. If a person gets an indifferent medicine the first time ho purchasses, he is very apt to condemn the whole of them and buy no inner, and inventors must only blame those of their number, (who igenrately combine plain medicines together for the purpose of making money.) for the ill success which attends the effort of sthe deserving."

"We believe Dr. C. M. Jackson's 'Hoofland's German Bitters,' to be a most excellent medicine, and one that shook be highly popular in these days of Tengierance.—For they are altogether Vegetable in their composition, without one drop of Alcoholic Spirits' in them. This medicine is innocent, but aircaginening in its effects, and richly deserving of an indounded popularity, which, when it becomes known, it will, no douls; fully enjoy."

Judgo M. M. Noah sail, in his "Weekly Messenger," January 8, 1850, "Dr. Hoofland's Ormon Bitters.—Here is a preparation which the leading presses in the Union appear to be unanimous in recommending, and the reason is obvious. It is made after a prescription furnished by one of the most celebrated physicians of modern times—the king of Prussia, and one of the greatest medical writers Germany has ever produced. He was explantically the enemy of humbers, and therefore a medicine of which he was the inventor and endorser may be confidently relied on. He specially recommended it in Liver Complaint, Dyspecpela, Debility, Vertigo, Acidity of the Stomach, Constipation, and all completion arising from a disordered condition of the stomach, the liver and the intestines. Nine Philadelphia agues as preses their conviction of its excellence. the liver and the intestines. Nine Philadelphi papers express their conviction of its excellence and several of the editors speak of its effects from and several of the cultura speak of its effects from their own individual experience. Under these circumstances, we feel warranted, not only in call-ing the attention of our readers to the present pro-prietor's (Dr. C. M. Jackson's) preparation, but in recommending the article to all afflacted."

nce has been received (like the foregoing) from all rections of the Union, the last three years, and the strongest testimony in its twor, is, that there is more of it used in the prac-tice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia, than all other neutrons combined, a fact that can easily be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will meet with their quiet approval when prepared even in this form.

That this medicine will cure Liver Complaint and Hyppepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directiful. It acts specifically upon the stonach and liver; it is preferable to calonel in all bilious discases—the effect is immediate.
